

I think people should be allowed to keep the same phone number when changing phone companies. It would be extremely practical for the consumer and encourage carriers to develop better services and price values to compete for business.